

"The needs of people affected by CDG and community-framed strategies to address them"

Cláudia de Freitas

Dr. de Freitas is a FCT Postdoc Fellow at the Institute of Public Health of the University of Porto (ISPUP) and at the Centre for Research and Studies in Sociology of the University Institute of Lisbon (ISCTE-IUL). She holds a degree in Clinical Psychology from the University of Coimbra, an MA in Migration and Ethnic Studies from the University of Amsterdam and a PhD in Social Sciences from Utrecht University. Her research interests include public and patient involvement in healthcare governance technology and innovation, migration and health, and health policy. Her work in the field of CDG focuses on identifying the barriers and benefits of participation family members in health decision-making processes in Portugal. She co-led the project "Think Tank 2015 on CDG" that aimed to assess the needs and elicit social innovations to deal with the challenges affecting the CDG community. She aims to contribute for CDG lives by raising attention to CDG and actively engaging with decision makers. Dr. de Freitas' work is widely disseminated through publications in books and journals including Social Science & Medicine, Health Policy and Health Expectations.
